Supreme Cuts, a premier processor and distributor of high quality pre-cut vegetables based in Mahwah, NJ, announced that KONRAD GAN has been promoted to operations manager.

Mr. Gan, who joined the company in 2006 as quality assurance manager, has been an instrumental member of the Supreme Cuts operational team as the firm has continued to expand its product lines and move into new markets.

In his role, Mr. Gan is responsible for overseeing the production of the company's innovative lines of pre-cut vegetables for both the retail and foodservice markets.

Supreme Cuts, which delivers to a 1,500-mile radius of its headquarters in northern New Jersey, offers dozens of unusual options in fresh, pre-cut vegetables, including snapped green beans and a rainbow bean medley.

This past month, Supreme Cuts launched "Off the Cob" fresh kernel corn. Mr. Gan will oversee production and quality control of this unique product line, which offers consumers fresh kernels, cut off the cob with a 12-day shelf life.

Mr. Gan, who was born in Warsaw, Poland, and currently lives in Brooklyn, NY, brings a strong background in the food industry and proven expertise in production, quality assurance and operations management to Supreme Cuts.

Prior to joining Supreme Cuts, Mr. Gan was quality assurance manager at Makkos of Brooklyn, the manufacturer of New York Pretzel. In addition, he spent a number of years as production manager at H&H Bagels in New York, one of the larger bagel manufacturers in the world.
